Shoya Wine List

Whilst Traditional Japanese Cuisine has not customarily been matched with wine, Master Chef Shigeo Nonaka's innovative Nouvelle Wafu cuisine, which explores the culinary boundaries of Japanese and European traditions, requires a selection of wines that compliments the subtlety and intricacy of the dishes created.

The wines chosen display pure and delicate fruit flavour in each varietal spectrum, as well as excellent balance, and particular care has been taken to ensure they match well with the complex cuisine.

In keeping with Shoya's inventive style, our constantly evolving wine list will feature only wines of the highest quality, including iconic as well as boutique wines, all selected for their respective harmony with the various elements of Chef Shigeo's cuisine.

The wines are arranged by grape variety, featuring their most renowned regions. We have included suggestions for each wine style's best-suited dishes.

To further enhance your enjoyment, wines are served in elegant and stylish Riedel 'O' Series Wine Tumblers and Stemware.

Wines and Sakes are on the front or alternatively, located at the back are our other beverages that may inspire; cocktails, beers, whiskies and non-alcoholic drinks are on offer

As with all extensive drink lists, the items, prices and/or vintages may differ, If in doubt or need assistance, please feel free to speak to us

SAKE & SHOCHU

What is SAKE?

SAKE is called the Rice Wine of Japan, going through the process of rice milling, steaming, Koji making, yeast starter, mashing, pressing, filtration, pasteurization, and then aging. The crucial elements involved in brewing sake are water, rice, technical skill, yeast, land and weather. Therefore, the quality of rice and water determines the final quality of SAKE.

Some mill and throw away 40 to 60 % of the quality rice to get a very fine core part as the major ingredient, others use mountain water and special techniques with homemade Koji and yeast starter to make differences.

The alcoholic content is 14-16%, so it is very similar to the one of wine but without all the preservatives that wine uses during the production process.

We recommend chilled SAKES for Sashimi and our entrees before enjoying warm SAKE for our Tempura, Wagyu and other main dishes.

What is SHOCHU?

SHOCHU is Japan's other indigenous alcoholic beverage, but unlike sake, SHOCHU is distilled. It is also made from one of several raw materials, such as barley, potatoes, corn, and even from chestnuts, raw sugar, citrus fruits, whatever people are willing to try to make with. You can enjoy some of the unique ingredients and flavours at SHOYA.

The alcoholic content is usually 25%, although sometimes it can be as high as 40% or more. Some can be enjoyed best on the rock, others with hot or cold water with a slice of lemon, a sour plum, etc. Find out the suitable way for you to enjoy with or without your meal.

All SAKE and SHOCHU are carefully selected from all over Japan by our owner-master-chef Shigeo Nonaka to amuse and please you with the beautiful match with any of the traditional and creative dishes he presents in SHOYA. Some bottles of our SAKE are hard to get even in Japan and those empty bottles have special value and price to some of the collectors. You can purchase the whole bottle to keep with your name tag on, to enjoy upon your next visit to SHOYA.

Champagne

The rich, bready, nutty, and finessed complexity of these champagnes makes them perfect aperitifs, and additionally they would match beautifully with Chef Shigeo's appetizers, sashimi and more delicate seafood dishes.

Its freshness entices us; our ears listen to the whispering bubbles as they rise to the surface of this golden, pink or pale crystal liquid. Bottling precedes its secondary 'spring ferment', which captures the famous effervescence. Celebratory and luxurious, these are wonderful examples of the various styles of France's most famous invention.

Sparkling Wine

These wines are delicious as an aperitif, with richness and complexity, and their persistent acid and structure likewise match well with the seafood dishes presented.

The New World has always been fascinated by the sparkling fantasy of Champagne, now producing the elegant, graceful méthode champenoise from the cooler regions of the antipodes. Their attractive spine of acidity supports full fruit and yeasty characters.

Sauvignon Blanc and Semillon

Rather than selecting highly acidic examples, we have chosen wines with more depth, dimension and fruit complexity, which match well with delicate white fish, shellfish, sashimi and crustaceans, and handle some spice.

In the Loire Valley, sauvignon blanc produces the famous Sancerre. The grape is sometimes described as exhibiting 'kiwi fruit' because of its fruit-driven herbaceousness, so it is often blended with great success with semillon, whose generosity benefits from its piercing acidity and spice. In New World expressions, its flavour spectrum is dramatic: from the zesty acidity of Marlborough, to the funky vegetal elements of the Adelaide Hills.

Viognier

Highly aromatic, with a luscious palate and some cleansing, citrus acidity, these wines would match best with the richer seafood, grilled and deep fried, and noodle and rice dishes.

Now virtually confined to the tiny Condrieu and Côte Rôtie regions in France, Australian producers number amongst the few champions keeping this wonderful variety alive. Exotic, luscious, seductive, full-flavoured, musk, spice, apricots, peaches; citrus blossoms and lychees are just some of the descriptors of this mysterious and alluring wine.

Riesling

Perhaps the most sublime wine match to Japanese cuisine, Riesling expresses racy, aromatic, minerality well suited to vibrant and fresh flavoured dishes. Its freshness and length will accompany delicate sashimi, white fish, sushi and spicy-pepper flavours.

The jewel of Germany's Mosel and France's Alsace, this variety exudes its terroir through its exquisite, bright flavours, luxurious texture and crisp acidity. In the Southern Hemisphere we have made dry Riesling our own, with the finest examples hailing from the cool Clare and Eden Valleys, Adelaide Hills, Tasmania, Great Southern and Central Otago.

Pinot Gris and Pinot Grigio

The exotic, spicy, floral aromas, ample texture and long, clean finish make these wines particularly well suited to sashimi, dumplings, tofu, fish and crustacean dishes.

Pinot Gris from Alsace is steely and refreshing, and can have a citrus aroma. The Alsatian style has richness with spicy aromatics; spicy, peach kernel and honeysuckle are common descriptions. The same grape in Italy is called Pinot Grigio, though is presented in a much drier style, showing more savoury nuttiness and minerality. New World wines tend to declare their particular style by labelling either in the French or Italian terminology.

Chardonnay

Rather than choosing tropical, buttery chardonnays, this selection tends towards the complex, mineral, nutty spectrum that would best suit crustacean, shellfish and fish dishes, tempura, dumplings, chicken and sashimi.

Perhaps the most famous wine of all, chardonnay expresses a true gamut of flavours and thrives in virtually any climate. Its progeny range in style from exquisite, warm, oak-aged, savoury White Burgundies of Meursault; the lean, flinty wines of Chablis; to the generosity and complexity of the best New World chardonnays.

Other White Wine Varieties

The world of 'other white varieties' offers a range of complementary flavour spectrums and new experiences. We have selected a group from Australia, France, Italy and Spain, all chosen to enhance the complexity and balance of the dining experience. These wines were selected to complement the delicacy of the seafood dishes, sushi and sashimi.

Rosé

These examples, which are savoury, dry and clean on the palate, will work well with the highest quality sashimi, sushi, tofu, abalone and pork dishes.

Created by the gentle crushing and swift removal of red wine skins or, conversely, the 'bleeding off' (saignée) of blushed juice, these wines make for a delicious transition from white to red. They are warming, with delicate tannins and bountiful, clean flavours suggesting wild strawberry, ripe cherry and forest floor complexities.

Pinot Noir

The elegance and intensity of pinot noir means that it is a versatile match to food. These wines would work well with more strongly flavoured fish, dumplings, tofu, pork and lamb, and particularly mushroom, miso, seaweed and soy flavours.

Notoriously difficult to grow and make, pinot noir has been dubbed the 'Holy Grail'. The great Red Burgundies of France achieve the cherished aromas and flavours of cherry, mint, raspberry, truffles, subtle leathery oak and the ubiquitous gamey odour in new wines often referred to as 'animalé'. It has been called the iron fist in the velvet glove because of its powerful intensity but silken, fine mouth-feel.

Shiraz

Each of these shirazes has been selected for its elegant complexity, rather than tannic power, and would best suit the dishes that take as their main component beef, pork, lamb or abalone.

This grape produces austere, aromatic, peppered, cool-climate Rhône-styles, and New World expressions of rich, inky, smoky, black fruits. The classic verbosity and potency of our famed Australian shiraz has also begun to give way to more restrained, smoky, spicy, cool climate shiraz, reminiscent of Southern France's Côte-Rôtie.

Cabernet and Blends

These cabernets have been selected for their long, fine tannin structure and pure fruit and herbal characters. The most difficult companion to Japanese food, this selection would be best suited to lamb, beef or pork dishes.

Cabernet Sauvignon enjoys warmer climates; though in cooler areas, it shows herbaceous, green qualities. The wines paradoxically retain delicacy, whilst showing brambly, smoky flavours and length. It's often blended with the 'orphans': Merlot, Mourvedre, Petit Verdot or Cabernet Franc, which add richness and satisfy its mid-palate.

Other Red Wine Varieties

This selection of 'new wave' red wine varieties and blends offer different and interesting food and wine matching possibilities. While varying in style, each has been selected for its purity of flavour, subdued tannins, and soft, seamless palate profile. They are best suited to the richer, soy, mushroom and teriyaki flavours of the pork, lamb and beef dishes.

Dessert Wine

Often created in the image of the great Sauternes of France affected by the 'Noble Rot' (Botrytis Cinerea), which leaves concentrated, flavoursome and sweet juice. In France, the principal variety used is Semillon, though in Australia, a range of other grape varieties are used to excellent effect. Spain's medium sweet, raisiny, smooth Moscatel is made in a vibrant and fresh style; and wines influenced by the Italian Moscato are sweetly fruity, low alcohol and lightly fizzy.

Wines are presented in 375 millilitre bottles, unless otherwise stated.

Fortified Wines

The rich, historic and artisanally-crafted wines make a delicious end to a meal. Iberia's great legacy to the world. In Spain, the common processes of fortification and barrel ageing within a solera system yields many distinct types with subtle variations within each; and from Portugal, we find inspiration for our fine vintage tawny.
